

TITLE: PERIIPMLANT DISEASE

Description: This lecture will address Periimplant diseases, diagnoses, etiology and risk factors, treatment modalities, and maintenance strategies. The format will be lecture and case presentations.

After this course participants will become more familiar with the following OBJECTIVES:

- Diagnoses of Periimplant diseases
- Etiologies and risk factors associated with periimplant disease
- Reported modalities of implant disease treatment methods
- Maintenance of dental implants in-office and with patient home care.

Dr. Kevin R. Suzuki graduated with his D.M.D. from Nova Southeastern University, Ft. Lauderdale, FL. He completed his residency in Periodontics and Oral Implantology and Masters of Science at Temple University, Philadelphia, PA.

Dr. Suzuki is a graduate of the Misch International Implant Institute where he also served as a lecturer, laboratory, and clinical instructor. He also lectures and serves as a clinical instructor for the Institute of Dental Advancement (Dallas, TX). Dr. Suzuki holds faculty positions at Temple University Graduate Periodontics and University of Washington School of Dentistry. He is currently in private practice of Periodontics in Seattle, WA.

Dr. Suzuki is a Diplomate of the American Board of Periodontology and International Congress of Oral Implantologists. He is past president of the Washington State Society of Periodontists and Washington representative of the Western Society of Periodontology. Dr. Suzuki is a member of the Omicron Kappa Upsilon, American College of Dentists, and International College of Dentists Honor societies. He is an Eagle Scout with the Boy Scouts of America. Dr. Suzuki has lectured for the American Dental Association Annual Meetings in 2015, 2016 and 2017.